Meet the Team

Logistics & Sourcing Team

The Logistics & Sourcing team, part of the Administrative Services Business Center, consists of four employees: Eric Berrios, Deandra Defranc, Josh Jaramillo, and team lead Tobin McCall; as well as Lamar Tompkins who is a Grainger employee that helps support the team. The team's focus is locating and purchasing products, materials, tools, etc. when needed for a project or job; but they do much more. The team works directly with their internal clients, usually Facilities Management technicians, to source parts and tools needed to keep the campus running.

Everyone on the team must be diligent in finding the right items and assisting their clients by getting what they need in a timely manner. It is a very client service focused job, and the team prides themselves on working face to face with those they serve, building a relationship with each person. Their main goal is to take care of their clients.

A notable accomplishment of the team was their efforts during and after the recent Hurricane Irma event. The National Guard was in need of a large tarp to protect and cover the many pallets of food being stored on campus to be distributed to people in need of assistance following the storm. The team quickly sourced a tarp that met the requirements and was able to assist the National Guard. The team also aided in receiving and delivering approximately 450 cots from the local Salvation Army depot for TECO technicians who rode out the storm on campus.

Like many of the areas throughout the campus, the Logistics & Sourcing team has begun transferring all hard copy, physical files, into digital files. The switch from analog to digital is a tedious and long process and the work being done by the Logistics & Sourcing team will be used as a prototype for other areas of the university. Student employees Deandra Defranc and Josh Jaramillo are playing an important role in this process. Under the supervision of the Administrative Services Business Center, they are responsible for researching hardware and software, as well as starting the process of the transfer.

The Logistics & Sourcing team plays a key role in supporting Administrative Services, as well as other areas of USF, in the on-budget and timely completion of projects. Their outstanding client service is a testament to their dedication and hard work. Thank you Logistics and Sourcing team for all you do for every corner of the campus.

Paws & Relax

As students are upon finals week, the pressure is high for those studying in the Library. Not to fear! Dogs like Sunshine (pictured above), who belongs to Barbara Donerly from Facilities Management, were on campus this past Tuesday to brighten their day and relieve the anxieties and tensions of finals week.

The event, called Paws & Relax, was hosted in front of the Library, and sponsored by the USF Center for Student Well-Being and Project PUP. Project PUP is a volunteer organization that uses pet visits to bring comfort and joy to everyone they meet, including the students of USF. PUP stands for “Pets Uplifting People” and is a non-profit organization with around 400 volunteers.

Paws & Relax included dogs of all shapes and sizes, along with three Llamas! It was Sunshine’s first large event. Although at first she was very nervous with so many people around, she calmed down with all of the sweet attention and petting the students gave to her ...sometimes 5-6 students all at once! The students seemed to relax Sunshine as much as she relaxed the students. She brought a smile to all, one student said “wow, this really works!”

Sunshine made for an easy conversation starter. The students loved her, many commenting that they missed their family dogs at home.

The students asked a lot of questions about Sunshine, frequent questions were:

What kind of dog is she? She is a lean, long legged White Sheppard/Alaskan Malamute mix with some signs of wolf.

How old is she? She is about 13. Barbara and her son adopted her from the SPCA 10 years ago and named her Sunshine.

How did she lose her front leg? 1 1/2 years ago she had to have the leg amputated due to an increasingly very painful condition in her shoulder joint.

Is she still in pain? Her recovery was difficult but she was a trooper and now has no pain, although she can no longer run like the wind.

A while back Barbara started thinking that, as an amputee survivor, Sunshine had a special gift to take to patients in hospitals, however she needed to be certified as a therapy dog first. On the day she was evaluated by Project PUP and received her certification, one of the volunteers encouraged Barbara to take her to visit the Veterans at the HEP Village in Clearwater, which they have been doing now for about six months.

Following the Paws & Relax event, Barbara said, “I was happy to share the sunshine of our lives with the students and hope to return if it is held again in the spring.”
