Re: Authorization to apply for a Criminal justice, Mental Health, and Substance Abuse Reinvestment Grant on behalf of Brevard County

Dear Ms. Bledsoe,

On January 9, 2018, the Brevard County Board of County Commissioners designated Central Florida Cares Health Systems, Inc. (CFCHS) as the official organization authorized to apply for a Criminal Justice, Mental Health, and Substance Abuse Reinvestment Grant planning funds on behalf of Brevard County.

CFCHS' proposed effort to assess our current criminal justice, mental health, and substance abuse systems and to develop a strategic plan to increase public safety, avert increased spending on justice systems, and improve the accessibility and effectiveness of treatment services for adults with behavioral healthcare needs is an important undertaking and is in alignment with the mission of the Public Safety Coordinating Council.

Additionally, the County Commission delegated the Public Safety Coordinating Council (PSCC) as the Planning Council for the grant. The members of the PSCC will actively participate in the assessment and planning activities coordinated through the grant project and will receive a formal presentation of the resulting Strategic Plan, for recommendation to the Brevard County Board of County Commissioners.

If you have any questions, please contact me at 321-633-2076.

Sincerely,

Rita Pritchett, Chair
Brevard County Board of County Commissioners

Tab 5: Statement of the Problem

The Brevard County Planning Grant will seek to develop strategies that will focus on increasing public safety, averting increased spending on criminals, and improving the accessibility and effectiveness of treatment services for adults who have a mental illness, substance use disorders, or co-occurring disorders, who are in, or at risk of entering, the criminal justice systems. If awarded, the impact of the Planning Grant will serve as a catalyst for change, data gathering, implementation of best practices, community collaboration, etc.

The target population are adults who are “at-risk” of involvement in the criminal systems that have factors associated with possible criminal behavior, including homelessness and other unstable living situations; history of victimization or abuse; significant transitions such as a recent release from jail, re-entry to the community from prison or release from a forensic facility; or a history of involvement in the criminal justice system.

Brevard County has not conducted a collaborative strategic assessment of intercept points for adults at-risk of becoming or involved in the criminal justice, mental health and substance abuse systems, and other service organizations. The Public Safety Coordinating Council and various community task forces have ongoing discussions related to the concerns with the increase of adult incarcerations and increase in persons with mental health and substance use indicators in the jail. Special programs are implemented to address the target populations. This Planning Grant will enable community leaders to conduct an in-depth assessment and develop a strategic plan for Brevard County that will clearly define diversion opportunities, gaps/needs of services, and target the population, as specified in the RFA.

Brevard County’s social economic landscape has an impact on the mental health, substance abuse, and criminal justice systems. The 2017 per capita income for Brevard County was $43,592 versus State of Florida $47,684, a difference of $4,092 lower than the average for other counties in the state (Brevard County Profile, Florida Legislature, Office of Economic and Demographic Research, August 2016). Due to the size of the total population in Brevard (568,919), Brevard County is not considered a fiscally constrained county in the State of Florida (2016 Population Estimates for Florida Counties) and Bureau of Economic and Business Research, University of Florida (2015).

According to the 2016 Brevard County Profile, Florida Legislature, Office of Economic and Demographic Research, the median household income for Brevard County was $51,536 compared to the state $50,883. Brevard County Poverty Level (BPL) of persons below 100% is 13.4% compared to Florida Poverty Level (FPL) at 15.5% (source 2017 Florida Charts). According to the 2017 Florida Health Charts, the percent of uninsured persons in Brevard County was 12% compared to the state at 14.9%.

Brevard County continues to see declines in local funding allocated for Community-Based Services. The remaining Community-Based Organization’s (CBO) funding will be discontinued by 2020. The 2019 funding level ($252,360) represents a 76.8% reduction from the program's high in 2007 of $1,088,772. Additionally, 50% (approximately $185,000) of the funding for Emergency Services (ES) was eliminated during the County's budget process in 2017 and has not been restored. ES is direct assistance for residents who would otherwise "fall through the cracks" and is administered by the Community Action Agency in Brevard.

Central Florida Cares Health System, Inc. (CFCHS), Managing Entity, manages behavioral health services in Brevard County for the uninsured and underinsured populations. CFCHS funds a network that offer various levels of treatment options ranging from prevention to crisis support to residential treatment to outpatient services for adults, children, and families. These treatment options help to reduce re-admission of persons with behavioral health issues to jails, crisis emergency services, and state hospitals. Early 2017, CFCHS' FY1718 budget was adjusted due to the Federal Block Grant funding reduction in the state's budget. Brevard County experienced a reduction in residential, crisis, and community-based services. In FY1617, a total of 8668 unduplicated clients were served, and in FY1718 there were 9322, an increase of 654 individuals in Brevard County who accessed behavioral health services funded by CFCHS.

According to the FY1617 Baker Act Data Report for CFCHS's region (Circuits 9 and 18), there were 23,779 involuntary examinations. For Brevard County there were 6,450. The initiator percent breakdowns are: 55.29% Law Enforcement, 43.46% Health Professional, and 1.26% Ex-Parte. Table 1 shows the percentage change from 1 year to 5 years for involuntary examinations and population change for Brevard County residents as compared to the state.

The Brevard County Jail experienced a relatively low inmate population between years 2013-2015; however, in 2016 the inmate population began trending upward. The following chart breaks down the average inmate population by month. In addition to the obvious increase, there was an increase each month in 2017 when compared with the same month in 2015.

Brevard County Judge Davidson facilitated a meeting late in 2016 with community stakeholders, law enforcement, criminal and civil court judges, and behavioral health agencies to discuss the lack of mental health resources in the community, the impact on the criminal justice system, and to develop partnerships to collaborate in addressing the community needs with the limited resources. It is important to note that no data was shared or used in this discussion.

A description of the screening and assessment process used to identify the Target Population(s)

All adults entering into the Brevard County Jail (BCJ) are given a medical assessment by Armor Correctional, a contracted medical services provider. Referrals to the Mental Health Unit at the jail can come from the assessment, correctional officers, or other sources. The Brevard County Sheriff (BCS) contracts with a psychiatrist that conducts the assessments and writes prescriptions as necessary. The Mental Health staff, employed by BCS, follow up with routine monitoring of the clients. Adults released from BCJ are provided 3-days' worth of medication and a referral (telephone number) to contact the local mental health provider, Circles of Care (CoC). The warm hand-off is missing and follow up is left to the released adult.

CoC provides the adult an appointment for a psychiatric evaluation within 3 days. Once the appointment is established, CoC contacts the jail by phone and notifies the BCJ contact of the appointment. The BCJ then releases the medication record to CoC. This process is nearly always completed by the time the patient comes to the appointment within the 3-day period. If appropriate, the patient is also referred to the Forensic Case Management Department for applicable services.

In 2017, CoC recorded 12 Jail referrals. Ten showed up at their scheduled initial appointment for an 83% show rate. This is better than the agency's typical show rate for first appointments. The number of referrals per year were consistent over the last 3 years. This suggests a very low rate of referred persons contacting the agency on release.

Referrals from the Department of Corrections (DOC) follow a similar path, with the access department handling the referral. These referrals are provided via an online referral system. There is frequent contact with the Managing Entity during this process. The DOC provides 30 days of medication upon release, and Circles of Care provides a follow-up appointment within 1-2 weeks.

In 2017, there were 29 recorded DOC referrals. Twenty-two (22) showed for their scheduled initial appointment for a 76% show rate. This is better than the agency's typical show rate for first appointments.

The percentage of persons admitted to the jail that represent people who have a mental illness, substance use disorder, or co-occurring disorders

The prevalence of Brevard County adults with mental health and substance abuse needs in the criminal justice system is difficult to quantify with the available county-level data. This is an opportunity for improving on expanding the collection methodology in the system. Anecdotal reports indicate that there is an increase in the number of service delivery and the type of services needed by individuals in the BCJ. The table below offers a small glance into the BCJ population with mental health indicators.

Table 3: Brevard County Jail Population with Mental Health Referrals

Calendar Year	Population	Description
2016	16,493	Individual inmates received: (may include the same person if inmate was received multiple times in the same calendar year)
2017	18,042
2018	18,394
2016	5,309	Individual inmates who had an initial mental health referral assessment: (does not include follow-up visits but may include the same person if inmate was received multiple times in the same calendar year)
2017	5,445
2018	6,502

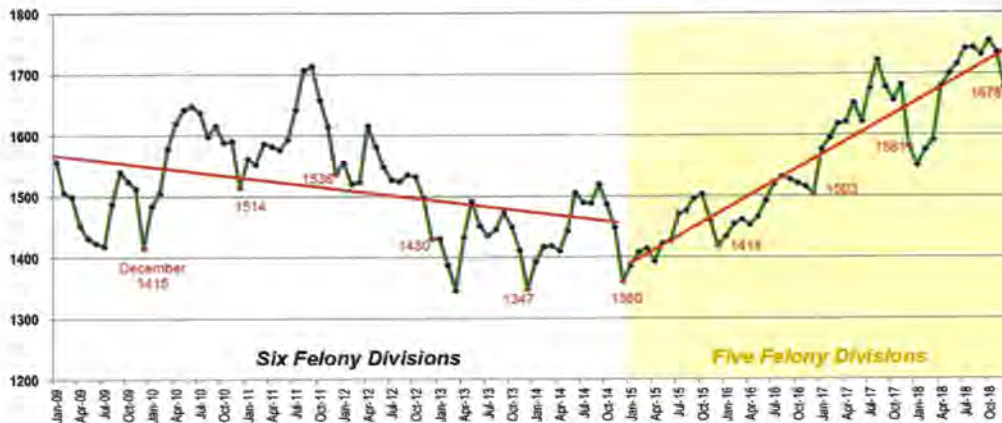

An analysis of observed contributing factors that affect population trends in the county jail; and data and descriptive narrative delineating the specific factors that put the Target Population at-risk of entering or re-entering the criminal or juvenile justice systems

Brevard County is not foreign to the challenges faced by a criminal court system that seeks to find available resources for the treatment of addiction. In 2017 alone, Brevard County reported 424 opioid-related deaths. Moreover, Brevard County probation officers assigned to supervise defendants who are out on pretrial release have noticed an increase in the number of clients testing positive for crack cocaine.

Unfortunately, limited resources are being felt in more than just the search for treatment solutions. In January 2015, the court system in Brevard County found it necessary to reduce the number of felony court divisions from six to five, in response to increased demands for circuit judges in the civil court system. A circuit judge's position was eliminated in Criminal and added to Civil, which reduced the amount of court time available to address felony cases by at least 1500 hours a year.

Seventy-five percent (75%) of the inmate population of the BCJ is in custody with a pending felony case; therefore, the need for treatment resources becomes all the more important. Combining the significant need for treatment resources, with a reduction in court time available to effectively address criminal cases, places the target population at-risk of entering or re-entering the criminal court system.

Brevard County Jail Inmate Population

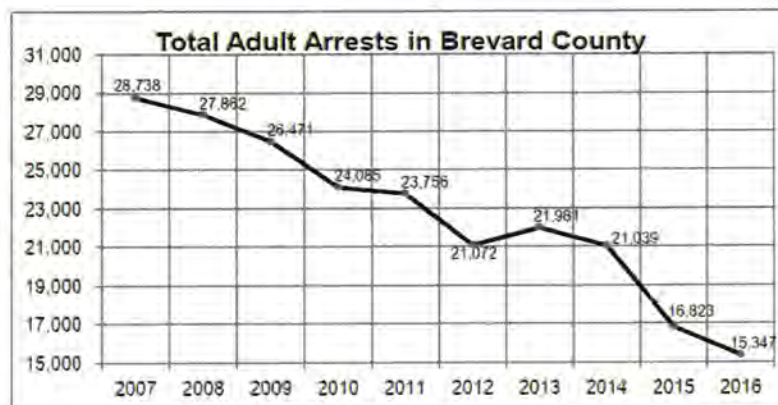

When looking at the BCJ inmate population, it's not enough to just focus on the jail's total capacity of 1757 beds – the discussion should include Classification concerns. For instance, while most of the beds are located in the medium-to-high-risk adult-male confinement areas of the jail, close to 20% are located in an area dedicated to the female population, and other beds are located in the tents and used for the low-risk population. Within these parameters, the jail is required to house, in an area that is separate from the adult population, those juveniles whose felony charges have been direct filed into the adult court system. Due to these expectations, the BCJ operates best when the average daily population does not exceed 85% (1,493 inmates). Since January 2017, the BCJ population has been fluctuating between 95% and 99% capacity.

Another way to look at the composition of the inmate population is through the perspective of the criminal court system. Although the numbers fluctuate slightly, approximately 70% of the BCJ inmate population has a pending felony case. Included in the remaining 30% of the population are those who have a pending misdemeanor case and those who are serving out a sentence. Moreover, within the overall inmate population are defendants who have been arrested for violating the conditions of their probation. A recent review of BCJ inmates who are in custody on a violation of probation (VOP) charge, showed that the court event referred to as VOP Arraignments was effective at resolving technical VOP charges in a timely manner. Out of the 84 inmates who had been in custody 90 days or more with a pending VOP, 73 had violated condition five of their probation, which involves committing a new criminal offense.

In their Jail Capacity Planning Guide, the U.S. Department of Justice, National Institute of Corrections, maintains that the inmate population of a jail is driven by policies of the criminal justice system. Arrests have little, if any, impact on a jail's inmate population (DOJ, 2009). For example, in Brevard, the inmate population decreased in 2013, although arrests increased that year; and then, in 2016, the inmate population increased while arrests decreased.

The Brevard County Mental Health Court Program (MHC), an evidence-based practice (EBP), is a diversionary/anti-recidivism program for our criminal justice system. MHC has been very successful in diverting persons from criminal justice system. In order for a defendant to qualify for the program, the defendant must agree to participate and the victim (be it a person, agency, or institution) MUST agree for the defendant to participate. The charges must be misdemeanor, but felony charges may be reduce to a misdemeanor for this program. If a defendant with felony charges does not successfully complete the program, the felony charges are reinstated and the case(s) proceed(s) through the criminal justice system as originally charged.

The defendant must have a qualifying mental health diagnosis. Mental illness is defined for the purposes of the court as an Axis I diagnosis as defined in the Diagnostic and Statistical Manual of Mental Health Disorders, Fourth Edition, TR. These are illnesses such as schizophrenia, schizoaffective disorder, bipolar disorder, and major depression with psychotic features.

In 2017, an efficacy study was conducted by Julie S. Costopoulos, Ph.D., Florida Institute of Technology. Defendants enrolled in the Brevard Mental Health Court (MHC) on or before the year 2010, were included in this study. According to the study, defendants whose records indicated their graduation status from MHC and with adequate detail to obtain re-arrest data (NCIC & STAC) were included in the recidivism study (N=118; 80 graduated, 38 dismissed). The results of the study on the effectiveness of MHC on lowering future criminality indicates the program is successful.

The study included 3 months of arrest data, 6 months, 1 year, and 3 years after discharge from the program. The re-arrest rates are persons who completed the MHC program reduced at each interval. The arrest avoidance for:

- 90% avoidance at 3 months with an N=72
- 81% avoidance at 6 months with an N=65
- 71% avoidance at 1 year with an N=57
- 54% avoidance at 3 years with an N=32

A greater proportion of those who graduated MHC avoided re-arrest at each time interval (3 months = 90%, N=72; 6 months = 81%, N=65; 1 year = 71%, N=57; 3 years = 54%, N=32). Graduating from MHC predicted more days free without re-arrest. The longer defendants participated in MHC, the longer they stayed out of jail, regardless of their criminal history. Once passing or failing was included in the model, most severe prior crime no longer predicted number of days free without arrest.

Participating in MHC, even if ultimately not graduating, also positively impacted later arrest records. The amount of days spent in MHC for those who were dismissed predicted a change in future offenses to less severe crime types (moving from more severe types such as interpersonal violence to less severe types at re-arrest, such as property offense) at 3 years after exiting MHC.

Pretrial release has also provided some relief. In Brevard County, arrested individuals, who do not bond out of jail prior to Initial Proceedings (IP's), may be court-ordered to Pretrial Release (PTR), which is a program that provides various levels of supervision to those deemed appropriate for the program. There is no cost to defendants for regular PTR supervision; however, there is a weekly $10 fee for Community Supervision, which provides a higher level of supervision, including monthly face-to-face meetings with their correctional officer. This weekly fee often creates a hardship for the individual due to inability pay which leads to violation.

Brevard County also has an Early Resolution (ER) Program, which is used to resolve suitable felony cases early in the court process. Defendants, both in and out of custody, are considered for the ER Program prior to entering the trial phase. If the case is not resolved at ER, it is placed on a felony docket, where it can be scheduled for trial. The following chart contains yearly averages of the percentage of newly-filed felony cases resolved through the ER and Diversion Programs. During the first 6 months of 2017, Brevard has averaged an ER and Diversion resolution rate of 44%.

Many of the released individuals have several other logistical problems which interfere with the aftercare. It is not uncommon for people to be impoverished during this period, lack fundamental means of transporting themselves to the appointment, lack the ability to apply to have their benefits restored, and have other logistical concerns in consistently acquiring their medication.

Transportation to appointments is an issue in a number of communities across Florida, and particularly so in Brevard County. Brevard County, on Florida's east coast, is a 72 mile stretch of land, north to south, with an average of 25 miles east to west, with the majority of the population living within a few miles of the coast. While this geographic feature provides easy access to recreation and a small community feel, access to health care, especially medical or behavioral health specialists, transportation north and south through the county presents many challenges.

For example, while Brevard County has a reasonably well developed bus transportation system, a consumer who lives at the northern end of the county may experience a 4-hour commute, one-way, to get to their medical appointment. Their journey may require numerous stops and transfers through several neighborhoods. In many instances, the time involved for some commuting via the bus system means taking the whole day off from work to make their medical appointment. According to one consumer, not only did it take the whole day to go to the psychiatrist, the consumer would have to wait until the following weekend to take the bus to the pharmacy to pick up the prescription, otherwise, the consumer would not be able to make the connecting bus home.

Since October 2018, The Space Coast Health Foundation has been funding a Transportation Pilot (TP) study in Brevard County. This pilot provides free transportation to and from appointments for ongoing mental health and/or substance use treatment. The goal is to show that by eliminating the transportation barriers, there is a decrease in readmission rates, increase in community-based treatments, and successful medication management in the persons participating in the pilot. To control this, a study was performed with data from persons who already had an established relationship with a provider at the outpatient clinic prior to the admission into crisis care. The follow-up appointment show rate post discharge was 53% (N=2084).

The TP identified persons with mental health disorders, who experienced multiple admissions for crisis stabilization, who have an established provider, but who also identified as having a transportation barrier that impacts their ongoing care. These persons have been offered access to free transportation for their on-going treatment post-hospitalization through the TP.

After 3 months, transportation was offered to 10 unique people, with 9 people successfully attending their follow-up appointment (90% show rate) multiple times per week or month. This included stopping for medication. While the TP is still ongoing, the results appear to reflect a substantial increase from the baseline of 53%.

Another population included in the TP are persons with opioid use disorder. Many persons with opiate use disorders have numerous psychosocial challenges. These challenges can include housing, vocational, impoverishment, lack of helpful social support, among others. For some, transportation is a major concern, so much so, that it is a major treatment barrier. The group in the pilot are currently participating in Vivitrol injection treatment with CoC. Vivitrol works by blocking the effects of opiates and alcohol, and when combined with drug counseling, is an effective treatment option for opiate use disorders. In a typical program such as this, missing a Vivitrol injection yields a near certainty of relapse.

Six individuals, who were identified as having no reliable transportation, were offered the free transportation services while participating in the pilot. All six attended the scheduled monthly injection appointments. Of the eleven counseling session scheduled, seven were attended. Of the four missed counseling appointments, all had unique reasons not related to transportation. Of the six individuals offered the transportation service, five continued in the program (83%). This exceeds the overall success rate of the program, which is currently near 50%.

This pilot has only been operating for 3 months, but preliminary results have shown that by eliminating transportation barriers, persons can achieve success in their on-going treatment as it relates to mental health and/or substance use disorder. This success transfers into decrease use of emergency departments, law enforcement/EMS response, and in the criminal justice system.

If awarded, this Planning Grant will facilitate a comprehensive planning process for Brevard County that will include a community needs assessment, Sequential Intercept Model (SIM) mapping and action plan, and identify gaps and opportunities in the criminal justice, mental health and substance abuse system. It will clearly identify the concerns with the increase of adult incarcerations and increase in persons with mental health and substance use indicators in the jail. The strategic plan will prioritize the strategies for implementation.

Tab 6: Project Design and Implementation

In 1990, the Brevard Board of County Commissioners (B-BOCC) established a Public Safety Coordinating Council (PSCC) consistent with s.951.26, F.S. There are no deficiencies in the PSCC membership. Letter of commitment from the Chair of the Board of County Commissioners and other individuals serving on the PSCC are included in TAB 6. In 2017, B-BOCC designated CFCHS as the designee for the Criminal Justice, Mental Health, and Substance Abuse Reinvestment Planning Grant application. The PSCC meeting occurs every other month, subcommittees, as necessary, and have met over the past year as such. At each meeting, the council reviews jail and court data, community behavioral health services, initiatives, and discusses barriers (policy, processes, etc.), and develop opportunities to address the concerns. Should this Planning Grant be awarded, both the B-BOCC and PSCC are committed to participating in the Planning Grant. The PSCC will oversee the Planning Grant to ensure that the goals are implemented and a comprehensive planning process is facilitated to identify opportunities and successes in the criminal justice and behavioral system the county can explore for implementation. They will lend their expertise, technical assistance, and participation in the monthly planning meetings, effectively assess, plan for, and address long-standing, critical needs in Brevard County. Brevard County PSCC membership is consistent with the requirements in Appendix K of the Request for Applications. The table below identifies by name, agency/sector representation:

The Planning Council will meet monthly to ensure the Planning Grant goals are met to increase public safety, avoid increased spending on criminal justice, and improve accessibility and effectiveness of treatment of adults who have a mental illness, substance abuse disorder, or co-occurring mental health and substance abuse disorder, and who are in, or at risk of involvement with the criminal justice system.

The Planning Council has engaged Criminal Justice Mental Health and Substance Abuse (CJMHS) Technical Assistance Center (TAC) on the pre-planning stage, demonstrated by their letter of support. If awarded, CJMHS TAC will facilitate the SIM mapping and planning process that will generate a strategic plan that will identify priorities. The PSCC and Planning Grant Council is committed to implementing the priorities.

The manner in which a needs assessment will be conducted

The Brevard County Community Needs Assessment (CNA) will be conducted over a 3-month period to:

1. Gain an understanding of the current systems, policies, and conditions guiding people with mental health and/or substance use disorders into the criminal justice system.
2. Identify a target population of people for whom mental health and/or substance use disorders lead to entry into the criminal justice system.

The process of implementing the CNA will be conducted by an independent consultant who will incorporate primary research (task forces, focus groups, surveys) and secondary research (statistics and existing local data) to present a final assessment to the PSCC and Planning Council.

Primary Research

1. Planning Council – which includes the Behavioral Health Task Force, sponsored by Space Coast Health Foundation, consists of members of the behavioral health provider community, law enforcement, the Brevard County School District, Child Welfare, county government representation, and the Brevard Homeless Coalition, who meet monthly to identify solutions to behavioral health and substance abuse challenges. This group has met monthly since July 2016. Over the course of three consecutive monthly meetings, the Task Force will be facilitated to discuss:
 - a) Collect and analyze data obtained (Baker Act, Marchman, BCJ, CFCHS, SCHF, etc.) to provide clarity and suggestions for further analysis;
 - b) Discuss the current systems, policies, and conditions impacting those with mental health and/or substance abuse disorders who enter into the criminal justice system;
 - c) Other Information will include demographic, population, socioeconomic, mental health and substance abuse, and community risk factors;
 - d) Based on the aforementioned information, identify possible target populations.
2. Surveys - Survey a broad group of the target: consumers, families of consumers, stakeholder and community members to understand the target group, and then use the information learned to structure the focus group.
3. Focus Group - Conduct focus groups of the consumer and family members of consumers identified above to gain an understanding and appreciation of their perspectives and experiences with the current system.

Secondary Research

1. Jail data – a) information from the BCJ will be studied to gain an understanding of the number of people who entered into the criminal justice systems who had a mental health and/or substance use disorder; b) In addition to the number of people, the data will be studied to identify age/sex/geographical bands.
2. Marchman Act data – will be analyzed to gain an understanding of the number of people who entered into the criminal justice system with a substance abuse disorder.

3. Baker Act data – will be analyzed to gain an understanding of the number of people who entered into the criminal justice system with a mental health disorder.
4. Space Coast Health Foundation Community Needs Health Assessment and Focus Group data – Over the past 2 years, the Space Coast Health Foundation has conducted research which will be included as appropriate.
5. Central Florida Cares Health System, Inc.'s data – mental health and substance abuse services data for the uninsured and underinsured will be studied to gain an understanding of the number of the indigent population who receive services and are/maybe involved in the criminal justice systems. In addition to the number of people, the data will be studied to identify age/sex/geographical bands. Additionally, CFCHS' Behavioral Health Needs Assessment data will be included.
6. Other data available – other data sources will be obtained through our collaboration with our stakeholder partners, such as the Health Alliance/Federally Qualified Health Clinic (FQHC), Child Welfare, private health agencies, etc.

The proposed methodology to identify, coordinate, and share funding and related resources, and recommended organizational or structural changes

CFCHS has identified and secured commitment from CJMHSA TAC to facilitate the Sequential Intercept Model (SIM) process and the needs assessment process by the key stakeholders in Brevard County. CFCHS' approach is to "cast a wide net" to encourage inclusion in this project. The purpose for this approach is to develop a strong foundation of trust, common goals, and aligned communication among the organizations (and people) which will be called on to make changes and share resources for the overall success of this effort. Building trust and creating relationships between the organizations will be accomplished through a series of regularly scheduled meetings scheduled to address the SIM and needs assessment. By working together on an agreed-upon common goal, the stakeholders will be better prepared to make the difficult changes which will inevitably be needed.

The Planning Grant will assist in identifying opportunities for blending and sharing funding to meet the priorities identified in the planning process. The Planning Grant will create opportunities for identifying and compiling the available resources. Importantly, the Planning Grant will seek to develop strategies that will focus on increasing public safety, averting increased spending on criminals, and improving the accessibility and effectiveness of treatment services for adults who have a mental illness, substance use disorders, or co-occurring disorders, who are in, or at risk of entering, the criminal justice systems.

To operationalize this approach, CFCHS is partnering with SCHF, which is providing an experienced, objective, independent facilitator who will work with stakeholders through a structure of task forces and committees. Throughout the course of the facilitated meetings, the stakeholders will identify, coordinate and share resources, and be allowed to suggest structural changes to how things are currently being done. As needed and as appropriate, stakeholders will establish formal partnerships.

The proposed strategy for project design and implementation; and

As previously mentioned, the strategy is to create a project of inclusion, while creating an operating structure which encourages input, fosters decision making, aligns communications, takes action, and creates an atmosphere of trust while pursuing the greater good. To achieve this:

- The Public Safety Council has been established to be the primary decision-making body for this project.
- A "team of stakeholders," in addition to the Public Safety Council members, have been engaged and will be organized into various committees and subcommittees, each established with specific purpose(s) and identified operating criteria.
- CFCHS will manage the work of this project and will develop the communication protocols, the meeting schedules, and engage the appropriate staff and consultants to complete the work.
- CFCHS has already engaged an independent facilitator to conduct the needs assessment.
- CFCHS has engaged the CJMHSA TAC to facilitate the SIM process.

The proposed strategy for coordination, communication, and data sharing

CFCHS will develop communication protocols that includes data sharing with key stakeholder input. The final protocol will include how the information will be gathered, stored, and shared. The protocol will be agreed by all parties and implemented to move this project forward. A formal data sharing agreement will be developed, agreed upon, and signed by the stakeholders. CFCHS recognizes that both the needs assessment and the SIM process provide tremendous opportunity to engage stakeholders to develop a plan for creating systemic change to the behavioral health-criminal justice relationship.

Community strategies and priorities will be developed and agreed upon from the needs assessment and SIM as a result of the Planning Grant. These will clearly identifying the target population, description of gaps and types of services, and the goals and objectives for interventions. Interventions may include, but not limited to: specialized responses by law enforcement agencies; centralized receiving facilities or systems for individuals evidencing behavioral difficulties; post-booking alternatives to incarceration; new court programs, including pretrial services and specialized dockets; specialized diversion programs; intensified transition services that are directed to the designated populations while they are in jail or juvenile detention to facilitate their transition to the community; specialized probation processes; day-reporting centers; linkages to community-based, evidence-based treatment programs for the served target population; and community services and programs designed to prevent high-risk populations from becoming involved in the criminal or juvenile justice system.

Performance Measures

CFCHS will be entering into a Consulting Agreement for the project management functions and responsibility of the Planning Grant. Achievement of the performance measures will be monitored monthly by the consultant.

The Planning Council will participate in the SIM, monthly meetings, needs assessment, and implementation of the strategic plan. The Planning Council will ensure that process evaluation data is collected and assessment and planning activities are documented. The Planning Council will be involved in writing, reviewing the final, and presenting the report to the PSCC. Formal written monthly program reports will be presented and shared with the PSCC. The process for collecting the performance measures data to measure project effectiveness will include, but not limited to:

- Process evaluation data
- Documentation of activities in accordance with the project timeline
- Meeting minutes from all Planning Committee and PSCC meetings
- Inventories of all information and data collected

Table 1: Evaluation Approach

Performance measure / objective	Data collection methodology	Analysis
Did the project meet planning milestones for the needs assessment and identification of the target population?	Review meeting notes and project documents and communicate with project staff on a quarterly basis.	Compare actual to planned progress and determine the percentage of tasks completed.
Did the project develop effective collaborations among stakeholders? Effective collaboration includes an increase in participating stakeholders, a change in depth of involvement (e.g., staff time committed), and/or the extent of coordination (e.g., processes changed to align with the plan, sharing information such as a warm transfer).	Review documents such as legally binding agreements and meeting notes.	Count the number of completed agreements and assess the extent of collaboration.
Did the project complete data sharing, collection, and reporting methodologies?	Review documents describing the methodologies.	Using a rubric, compare the extent to which documents include best practice components of data sharing, collection, and reporting methodologies.

Did the project meet planning milestones for completion of the strategic plan?	Review meeting notes and project documents and communicate with project staff on a quarterly basis.	Compare actual to planned progress and determine the percentage of tasks completed.
Did the project meet criteria for a high quality plan? Criteria include Sequential Intercept Model (SIM), identified funding opportunities, and identified policies and practices.	Review meeting notes and project documents and communicate with project staff on a quarterly basis to be conducted within 6 months of award.	Using a rubric, determine the extent to which documents reflect quality criteria.

Sustainability

The Planning Grant's proposed community needs assessment, SIM, and planning objectives will be the first thorough examination of Brevard County's criminal justice, mental health, and substance abuse system. The Planning Grant will help to clearly identify the target population and recognize opportunities for system changes that do not require funding, develop collaboration and partnerships, identify and develop strategies to address the gaps in the system. The Planning Council, through collaboration, will implement the strategic plan as developed by CJMHSA TAC's SIM mapping and action planning. The Planning Council will explore opportunity for leveraging existing funding to build support and resources. The Planning Council will seek new funding opportunities to implement strategies that require a funding stream. Brevard County Mental Health Court (EBP) has proven to be successful in diverting. The feasibility of expanding, funding, and sustaining Mental Health Court will be assessed during the planning process. The Planning Council will apply for CJMHSA Reinvestment Implementation Grant to implement the priorities identified in the Planning Grant process. Further, the Planning Council will apply for federal grants that fit within the identified priorities.

Dear Ms. Bledsoe:

As Executive Director of the Brevard Homeless Coalition, it is my pleasure to write this letter of commitment for a Planning Grant Application for the Criminal Justice, Mental Health, and Substance Abuse Reinvestment Grant for Brevard County, Circuit 18. I commit to supporting the Planning Grant Council by participating in all aspects of the grant including the planning council, Sequential Intercept Mapping, as well as developing collaborative partnerships to address the target populations.

The Brevard Homeless Coalition is the Department of Housing and Urban Development designated Lead Agency for the Continuum of Care in Brevard County. The goal of the Coalition is to end homelessness in Brevard County by 2020. We believe this to be a realistic goal. However, we understand that ending homelessness requires a holistic approach. We have committed to maximizing collaboration among all agencies and organizations working with the physical health, behavioral health, legal, employment, and educational needs of our target audiences.

An important part of my responsibility is to closely follow trends and identify gaps in our processes and services. The Brevard Homeless Coalition, including many of its 75 member agencies, intends to be fully engaged in all phases of the Planning Grant. We are certain that the results will enable us to even better reach out to and serve households in need. Our Re-Entry Task force members are especially eager to engage.

Many of our homeless households have a history of interaction with the criminal justice system. Others have experience with a mental illness, substance use disorders, or co-occurring disorders. Many have both. Others are at imminent risk of entering the criminal justice systems.

I strongly support the Planning Grant objective of developing strategies that will focus on increasing public safety, averting increased spending on criminal behavior, and improving the accessibility and effectiveness of treatment services for adults who have behavioral health challenges.

Dear Maria,

It is my understanding that Central Florida Cares Health System (CFCHS), with the support of the Brevard County Public Safety Coordinating Council, County Government and community stakeholders, is pursuing a State of Florida Criminal Justice, Mental Health and Substance Abuse (CJMHS) Reinvestment Grant released by the Florida Department of Children and Families Office of Substance Abuse and Mental Health (Grant # RFA112818HSET1).

If awarded the grant, our USF CJMHS Technical Assistance Center is prepared to conduct a Sequential Intercept Mapping (SIM) process and report for CFCHS and Brevard County. In brief, "SIM" is a best practice in cross-systems planning among the criminal justice system and the substance and mental health system. The SIM will build consensus, establish program priorities, identify evidenced-based treatment models and establish a concrete action plan for persons with mental illnesses and substance use disorders involved in the local criminal justice system in Brevard County.

We are committed to working with CFCHS and the Brevard County Public Safety Coordinating Council in developing your strategic plan . You can contact me at mengelhardt@usf.edu or call 813-974-0769.

Dear Ms. Bledsoe:

As the Executive Director of Specialized Treatment Education and Prevention Services, Inc (STEPS) it is my pleasure to write this letter of commitment for a Planning Grant Application for the Criminal Justice, Mental Health, and Substance Abuse Reinvestment Grant for Brevard County, Circuit 18. STEPS commits to supporting the Planning Grant Council by participating in all aspects of the grant including, strategic planning, Sequential Intercept Mapping, and developing collaborative partnerships to address the target populations.

The target population are adults, who are "at-risk" of involvement in the criminal justice system(s) that have factors associated with possible criminal behavior, including homelessness and other unstable living situations; a history of victimization or abuse; significant transitions such as a recent release from jail, re-entry to the community from prison, release from a forensic facility, or a history of involvement in the criminal justice system(s).

Central Florida Cares Health System, Inc.
