

Fall 2021

HEALTH COMMUNICATION

COM 6025

R 6:30 PM - 9:15 PM

MODE OF INSTRUCTION: FACE TO FACE

CRN: 95906

In this survey course, we make central the role of communication for health. While other disciplines (e.g., public health, health education, and medical sociology and anthropology) also are concerned with health, communication is the only one that places an emphasis on messages. Specifically, we will explore how individuals' health behavior is framed by the levels/contexts in which we exist: individuals, interpersonal, organizational, community, media, and global policy.

For more information, email:

Dr. Ambar Basu
abasu@usf.edu