College/Division: Academic Affairs / College of Arts and Sciences
Salary Plan: Faculty
Job Code/Title: 9004 / Instructor I
Position Number: 00036901
Hiring Salary/Salary Range: $45,000

Minimum Qualifications:

We seek a generalist in Communication Studies to teach both classroom and online courses in one or more areas of department need. Interest in developing skills in online instruction is required; prior experience developing and teaching online courses is preferred. The position may offer opportunities to teach in summer. A Ph.D. in Communication is required by the date of the hiring decision, although we will consider ABDs who can demonstrate that they will complete the degree by the date of employment (August 7, 2019). Review of applications will begin on February 15, 2019. Other requirements include a record of demonstrated excellence in undergraduate teaching and an interest in teaching online. The position may offer opportunities to teach in summer.

Preferred Qualifications:

Candidates who are able to teach courses in organizational communication, interviewing, media and culture, rhetoric, and/or performance studies will be given preference. The candidate will teach a senior capstone course for communication majors, and may also be involved in departmental internship coordination. The Department values innovative and diverse perspectives on teaching, research and social engagement. Preference will be given to candidates who contribute to the intellectual diversity of the Department.

The Department is committed to removing barriers that have traditionally been encountered by individuals from underrepresented groups; strives to recruit faculty who will further enhance our diversity; and makes every attempt to support their academic, professional and personal success while they are here. The University recognizes that a diverse faculty benefits and enriches the educational experiences of the entire campus and greater community. USF is an Equal Opportunity, Affirmative Action, and Equal Access employer.
