

SPC 6934: Organizational Communication

This is a survey course on the field of organizational communication. We will examine how communication scholars study organizations and the processes of organizing. Our focus will include key historical pieces and recent developments. Together we will explore various theoretical perspectives connected to the study of organizing and cover topics such as: emotions, power, organizational structure, policy, identity/identification, organizational form (including alternative forms of organizing), socialization/assimilation, resistance and dissent, nonprofit and community-based organizing, among others.

CRN: 85442

W 6:30pm-09:15pm

CIS 3063

Mode of Instruction: Hybrid

For more information, email:

Dr. Sonia R. Ivancic
(sivancic@usf.edu)