iCAR, the Initiative On Coastal Adaptation and Resilience presents:

A virtual discussion with Dr. Robert D. Bullard, often described as the father of environmental justice and the keynote speaker for the iCAR 2021 workshop – Phase VII: Climate Justice, Social Networks and Equitable Resilience.

Dr. Bullard's presentation will be livestreamed on Zoom. Participants can watch from home or join a Watch Party on the USF St. Petersburg campus. The USF Watch Party will be outdoors by the waterfront, and refreshments will be served. Participants are encouraged to wear masks and social distance.

This event is free but pre-registration is required and the number of participants at the Watch Party will be limited due to COVID-19. Register early! Sign up by clicking this link, https://forms.gle/YTFJkpWFjKudRJdD7.

The Initiative on Coastal Adaptation and Resilience (iCAR) was developed in 2015 to engage stakeholders in the adoption of policies and practices focused on coastal adaptation and resilience. iCAR also aims to leverage USF's intellectual capital and resources to build safer, healthier, more aware, prepared, and resilient communities in the Tampa Bay region.
