COMMITTEE UPDATES

APPLY NOW: Psychology Diversity Research Fund

Thanks to our fundraising efforts (and your donations!), the Diversity Committee is excited to announce that we are able to award the first grant from the Psychology Diversity Research Fund. This grant funds two students up to $500 for their diversity-related research projects. Graduate and undergraduate students may apply until November 1st, 2021. Click here to learn more about the grant and how to apply.

Climate Colloquium

In Spring 2021, the Diversity Committee sent out a departmental climate survey. We will be presenting data followed by a discussion for faculty, staff, and graduate students across all three campuses on October 22nd, 2021 at 11 A.M.

Check your email for an invitation to join this meeting via Teams!

Results relevant to undergraduate experiences will be presented by the Student Diversity Committee in the Spring. Stay tuned for more information.

Call for Diversity-Related Activities in the Classroom

Do you have an activity in your classroom that addresses diversity, equity, or inclusion? If you'd like to share, please email us at usfpsdcintern@gmail.com.

RESEARCH SPOTLIGHT

Diversity research in psychology

Approach Motivation Moderating Women's Confrontation of Sexism (Liz Kiebel, CNS Graduate Student, Dissertation Work)

Women continue to face sexism on a regular basis but often fail to confront it, despite confrontation being an effective way to cope with and prevent future harassment. Research suggests women are more likely to confront overtly antagonist (hostile) sexism than they are to confront subtly patronizing (benevolent) sexism, however, personality differences related to approach motivation may moderate confrontation ability. In this study, women are exposed to a hostilely sexist or benevolently sexist comment and their confrontation is scored, with the prediction that women high in approach motivation will be more likely to confront hostile sexism and will have better performance on tasks following the sexist comment. Stay tuned for results!

SUPPORT DIVERSITY RESEARCH NOW

Thanks to the generosity of faculty, students, alumni, family, and friends we've surpassed our first milestone of raising $1000 for the Psychology Diversity Research Fund!

This milestone will allow us to fund the first year of research grants.

Now we need your help to permanently endow the Grant. Keep the momentum going by making a donation today!
