Title: Health Resources and Services Administration: Public Health Practice in Action

Presenter: Monica Rousseau, DrPH

Abstract: The American public hears a lot about the CDC, NIH, and FDA... but what about HRSA? The Health Resources and Services Administration is one of the lesser known health agencies within the department of Health and Human Services, but its opportunities and services are critical to the public health infrastructure of the nation. This session will provide an overview of HRSA and present the diverse and relevant opportunities within the agency that are relevant to current and former scholars of translational research. Participants will leave having a clearer understanding of career, research, and grant opportunities relevant to their educational tract.
