Evaluation of C.A.R.E.S. Program

2024 Role: PI $100,000.00

In partnership with the Brevard Family Partnership and the Department of Child and Family Studies, the University of South Florida will conduct an evaluation of the C.A.R.E.S. (Coordination, Advocacy, Resources, Education, and Support) model being implemented in Florida by Brevard Family Partnership. C.A.R.E.S. is family-centered, strength-based model for child abuse prevention and family preservation. The model is intended to increase protective factors, help families remain together in the community, and prevent situations or events that would result in a child being removed from their home. The purpose of the evaluation is to determine the effectiveness of the C.A.R.E.S. model for child welfare involved families by comparing child and family outcomes for families who received C.A.R.E.S. services to those of a comparison group who did not receive C.A.R.E.S. services. In addition, the study will describe the C.A.R.E.S. model and implemented process utilized by the C.A.R.E.S. staff.

Evaluation of Implementation to Fidelity of Evidence-Based Services

2022-2024 Role: PI $1,658,492.00

Contracted through the Florida Department of Children and Families via funding from the Administration for Children and Families. The Families First Prevention Services Act (FFPSA, 2018) reforms child welfare financing streams to provide prevention services to families who are at risk of entering the child welfare system; allows for federal reimbursement for community mental health, substance use treatment, and in-home parenting skills training; and seeks to improve the well-being of children already in foster care by incentivizing states to reduce placement of children in congregate care. In order to meet these changes, states and local areas must be prepared to implement programs and practices that have been determined by the FFPSA Clearinghouse to be either well-supported, supported, or promising. Florida has selected nine evidence-based practices (EBPs) to implement during the initial transition to FFPSA: Motivational Interviewing, Multisystemic Therapy, Functional Family Therapy, Parent Child Interaction Therapy, Healthy Family Florida, Brief Strategic Family Therapy, Nurse Family Partnerships, HOMEBUILDERS, and Parents as Teachers. All nine of these practices have been reviewed by the FFPSA Clearinghouse and evaluated as ‘well-supported’ practices, however, the State must evaluate and document that these practices have been implemented with fidelity to their program models and are achieving their intended outcomes. Furthermore, the State has conducted a review of existing practices and identified two additional practices that are not currently on the Clearinghouse and will require a rigorous evaluation using a randomized controlled trial (RCT) or quasi-experimental design to meet Clearinghouse standards: C.A.R.E.S. and Modern Family. In response to the current and anticipated evaluation needs of the State, we have assembled a diverse team of researchers with extensive expertise in designing evaluation research studies, implementation science, and evaluation of evidence-based and promising practices, as well as a long history of relationships with organizations throughout Florida’s child welfare system. The USF team is located in the Department of Child and Family Studies (CFS) – Division of Child and Family Behavioral Health (CFBH), and the School of Social Work, both situated in the College of Behavioral and Community Sciences. USF will be subcontracting with the Health Services Research Institute (HSRI) to form a research-to-practice partnership. The team will build on their collective depth of experience in systems change efforts to provide comprehensive, mixed methods evaluation of fidelity to EBP's (process, fidelity, and outcomes), create a CQI system for collection of data for analysis, and responsive technical assistance (TA) plan for meeting challenges identified. This partnership will actively collaborate with DCF, Regional and CBC leadership, Subject Matter Experts, Universities and providers responsible for the training and implementation of the selected EBP's, and other key stakeholders in order to promote optimal development, implementation, and sustainability effort to support Florida's Families First prevention plan.

Evaluation of STOP Program Grantee Perspectives on Violence Prevention and Mental Health Training Program Implementation

2021-2023 Role: PI $478,553.00

Funded by the National Institute of Justice, the purpose of this study is to inform ongoing implementation and improve program effectiveness for violence prevention and mental health training programs funded by the Bureau of Justice Assistance (BJA) in response to the Students, Teachers, and Officers Preventing (STOP) School Violence Act. The study team will utilize the Active Implementation framework from the National Implementation Research Network (NIRN) to assess stages of implementation and determine what drivers of implementation are contributing to program success or are underutilized. This bi-level study will include a cross-site analysis targeting grantees across 128 sites from implementation years 1 (2018) and 2 (2019), and an in-depth case study analysis including 5 sites across diverse population categories for each implementation year (10 sites total). This evaluation is intended to support grantees in reaching full implementation through a rapid response feedback loop, providing strategic assessment and identification of common implementation factors and processes across sites, as well as specific recommendations for improvements. Additionally, the study will provide evidence to inform broader understandings of program implementation of violence prevention and mental health programs in schools through dissemination of findings to the school and practitioner communities as well as research communities.

SAMHSA Project Aware (Advance Wellness & Resilience in Education) TISS (Trauma Informed support Services in Schools)

2023-2027 Role: Co-I $600,000.00

National evaluation contract with ICF as lead applicant and USF as subcontractor. The proposed Task Order (TO) is intended to support the design, implementation, and dissemination of the findings of a process and outcome evaluation of two grant programs administered by the Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration (SAMHSA): (1) Advancing Wellness and Resilience in Education (Short Title: Project AWARE); and (2) Cooperative Agreements for School Based, Trauma-Informed Support Services and Mental Health Care for Children and Youth (Short Title: Trauma-Informed Services in Schools (TISS)) The process evaluation will identify and describe the crucial factors that may affect the fidelity and success of these programs. The outcome evaluation will address program specific questions and assess the extent to which these programs make schools safer by increasing access to mental health promotion and treatment services. SAMHSA expects that this evaluation will also assess the outcome of these grant programs specifically for school aged sub-population and under resourced communities. My specific involvement in 2023 included: weekly meetings, document review, and providing feedback on qualitative data collection protocols.

Center for Child Welfare

2019-2022 Role: Curriculum Developer

Funded by the Florida DCF, the Center for Child Welfare at the University of South Florida was founded in 2007 out of a need to communicate a consistent policy and practice message to child welfare professionals throughout Florida. The Center utilizes a knowledge management platform currently reaching 12,000 users who serve more than 34,000 children in out-of-home and in-home care. The Center's mission is to provide vital, up-to-date and research-based training, as well as critical resources and information to best prepare and support child welfare front-line staff to meet the needs of Florida's most vulnerable children and families. My specific involvement included curriculum development such as development of training curriculum on e-professionalism standards related to social media for child welfare case managers and investigators, and development of training curriculum on implicit racial bias for child welfare case managers and investigators.

Social Work Behavioral Consultant Training

2020-2021 Role: Curriculum Development and Technical Writing

Funded by the Veteran's Administration via USF School of Social Work; served as technical writer and liaison with faculty experts and production team to develop Social Work competency training and education programs. This includes the roll-out plan, all aspects of the curriculum, and implementation.

Child Welfare Pre-Service Training Evaluation

02/01/18 – 01/31/20 Role: PI

Through Senate Bill 1666, the Florida Legislature has prioritized the evaluation of the pre-service training for child protective investigators and case managers. This evaluation is funded by the Florida Institute for Child Welfare at Florida State University. The main objectives of the evaluation are perception, learning and performance. Using Kilpatrick's Level 3 training evaluation model, this evaluation will determine how much transfer of knowledge and skills has occurred following pre-service training curriculum. Specifically, what workplace behaviors are in place as a consequence of training, and if knowledge gain has occurred without the corresponding behavior change, and what environmental and systems level factors are hindering the desired application of knowledge. The skill transfer will be assessed in a variety of ways, such as, evaluating work tasks (assessment tools), performance checklists, supervisor assessments, peer reviews and observations.

Southern Region Behavioral Health Services Gap Analysis

May 10, 2019 – December 31, 2019 Role: Qualitative Analyst

01/01/15 – 03/30/19 Role: Co-PI

Contracted through the Florida Department of Children and Families.

Evaluation of the Title IV-E Waiver in Florida, which enables federal funds to be more flexibly spent on preventing children who come into contact with Florida's child welfare system from being placed in out-of-home care. Funded through the Department of Children and Families for the evaluation of Florida's second Waiver term. The evaluation is comprised of four related components: (a) a process analysis containing an implementation analysis and services and practice analysis, (b) an outcome analysis, (c) a cost analysis, and (d) two sub-studies. The goal of the implementation analysis is to identify and describe implementation of the Demonstration extension. The services and practice analysis includes an examination of progress in expanding the array of community-based services, supports, and programs provided by CBC lead agencies or other contracted providers, as well as changes in practice to improve processes for identification of child and family needs and connections to appropriate services. The outcome analysis tests the relevant hypotheses listed in the amended Florida Demonstration Terms and Conditions by examining a variety of child-level outcomes that are expected to result from the extension of the Demonstration project. The cost analysis examines the relationship between Demonstration implementation and changes in the use of child welfare funding sources.
