Coordination of the Virginia component of a four-site research project entitled "Abilities-Focused Care to Veterans with Dementia" involved the management of project operations, including recruitment and registration of study participants, explanation of the study and obtaining informed consent, organization of data collection and transmission, and data management. Duties included presentation of project proposal and data results, in accord with institutional review board requirements. Managed Virginia segment of $800,000 U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs grant project.

2000-2002      Adjunct Faculty, Virginia Tech
 Research Assistant, Virginia Tech
 Blacksburg, Virginia (Center for Gerontology)

As full-time Research Assistant at the Virginia Tech Center for Gerontology, I collected and entered data on a large-scale study of involuntary adult protective services, examining the balance of state protection and client rights. I also developed a codesheet for data entry and a rationale for coding items, and I assisted with delineation of procedures for the current research project. I conducted library and electronic database searches for literature surrounding current research, and co-authored an article and presentation describing study results.

1998-2001      Instructor, Radford University School of Social Work

Teaching practice, field, and human behavior courses at a state university entailed preparation of coursework and syllabi, maintenance of course schedules, managing coursework schedules, and management of classroom and administrative tasks. Fieldwork liaison duties involved planning, gathering, and disseminating information pertaining to field studies, as well as engaging in periodic visits with field placement agencies and students. Recruitment of future field placement sites was also part of this work, as was relaying observed and reported programmatic problems.

As Program Manager with a nationally recognized hospice with an average daily census of 900 patients, I supervised an interdisciplinary team that included nurses, social workers, chaplains, and nurse managers. I coordinated community outreach and program development, including multicultural outreach to Seminole tribes and migrant workers. I assessed cost effectiveness of health provision programs and researched, wrote, and was awarded foundation grants. I supervised daily social work operations, and managed and developed programs, policy, and procedures.
