

RESEARCH TALK

with Dr. Amélie Lemieux

Join us for important conversations around ethical frameworks for conducting research around adolescents' use of social media in post-COVID era.

Offered in partnership with the USF Literacy Studies Program

This evening will include discussion about:

- conducting and disseminating research implicating social media use with youth
- ethics, research design, and work with youth in school settings
- Initial results from the SSHRC-funded #InstaPoetry project
- digital literacies, visual arts, and their impact on adolescents' understandings of literacies

WEDNESDAY,
NOVEMBER 8, 2023

6:00-7:30 p.m.

Dinner will be provided starting at 5:30 p.m.

TECO Hall USF College of Education
Tampa Campus

REGISTER NOW

Amélie Lemieux, Ph.D.

Dr. Lemieux is an Assistant Professor at the University of Montreal's Faculty of Education. Her research interests include EDIA policies as they relate to reading research, literature teaching, and multimodality, all informed by phenomenological and posthumanist perspectives. As a bronze Lieutenant-Governor's Medal Recipient of Quebec, she received funding to investigate adolescents' digital literacy practices and meaning-making processes as ways to leverage racial and social justice.

