BACHELOR OF SCIENCE IN
English Education
Department of Teaching and Learning

Program Overview and Highlights
The English Education Program is designed to prepare students to develop content knowledge related to structures and functions of language, diverse literatures (including print and non-print texts and multimedia), adolescent literacy and writing theories and processes. This program is a joint program between the College of Education and the College of Arts and Sciences. Students will learn pedagogical content knowledge, including how to select English Language Arts curriculum, how to implement instructional practices like discussion and peer review, how to assess student compositions and how to reflect on their pedagogical practices. Students will participate in field experiences, working alongside collaborating teachers in secondary school settings. Courses for earning an English for Speakers of Other Languages (ESOL) Endorsement are included in this program.

Some courses in this program include:
- Language Principles and Acquisition
- Adolescent Literature for Middle and Secondary Students
- Methods of Teaching English
