Org Quiz

Check out this quiz to help you compute which orgs cater best to what you're looking for. Joining orgs on campus helps you to gain experience outside of classrooms and to master soft and hard skills that will assist in class. Orgs are really important because you need them for networking, internships, mentorship and much more. More than anything, it is a place for you to have fun and be apart of our campus scene. 1 - American Association of University Women

The mission of AAUW at USF is to create a support system and lifelong network for women in STEM, business, & leadership positions during university years and beyond. This organization fosters professional development geared towards the needs of students through professional workshops, peer mentoring, leadership opportunities, community outreach, job and internship opportunities, and presentations from inspiring speakers in academia and industry.

AAUW at USF is based out of the College of Engineering, but provides support and professional development to the whole USF community. All majors and nationalities are welcome, and all genders!

The goal of this org is to empower women and USF students to grow as future leaders in the workforce by providing the knowledge, skills, and mindset for success in their career path after USF.

2 - American Institute of Chemical Engineers

USF AIChE is a student chapter of the American Institute of Chemical Engineers at the University of South Florida. AIChE is the world's leading organization for chemical engineering professionals, with over 45,000 members from over 90 countries. Here at USF, AIChE seeks to provide members a better understanding of multiple aspects of chemical engineering, give hands on projects for students to work together to better prepare for their careers, and allow for networking with engineers in the profession, all to offer opportunities for their professional development so that students may enrich the world they live in.
