College Video Tutor is a local small business in Tampa, FL that was created by University of South Florida Alumni that is changing the way students learn. Textbooks are important, but nothing beats hands on learning taught by someone already familiar with the subject. We are opening our doors for the first time to provide a great opportunity for a handful of students that enjoy teaching others how to learn. Visit our website today to see if you would be a good fit for our team and to submit an online application.
