

Professor, Department of Philosophy, College of Arts and Sciences
Affiliated Faculty, College of Global Sustainability, University of South Florida

Homepage: <http://philosophy.usf.edu/faculty/mschonfeld/>

Research: <https://usf.academia.edu/MartinSchonfeld>

Areas of Specialization Philosophy of Climate Change

Research Keywords Climate Change, Enlightenment, Sustainability

Professional Experience

2019- Visiting Professor (recurrent), East China Normal University 华东师范大学, Shanghai, P.R. China

2018- Associate Editor, Journal for the Study of Religion, Nature & Culture

2017- Co-Editor, Journal of Global Ethics

2016 Visiting Professor, Tunghai University 東海大學, Taizhong, Taiwan, R.O. China

Recent Research

EDITED JOURNAL ISSUES

China and Societal Evolution. Special issue of J of Global Ethics, in preparation, for 2019.

Ecology. Co-edited w. Eric S. Nelson. Special issue of J of Chinese Philosophy 43.3-4 (2018).

CHAPTERS (single-authored)

“Secularizing stewardship: the heuristic potential of Confucian role ethics” in G. Sigurðsson et al., ed., Beyond Comparisons: Three Exemplars of Ru 儒 (2019)

“Grounding phenomenology in the Daodejing,” in D. Chai, ed., Daoist Encounters with Phenomenology, Bloomsbury (2019, in press)

“Deutscher Idealismus: Immanuel Kant,”

in J. Urbich et al., eds., Handbuch Ontologie, Metzler, forthcoming 2018.

“Kant’s physics and philosophy of nature: anticipating the standard model,” in S. Baiasu et al., eds., The Kantian Mind, London: Routledge, forthcoming 2018.

“American disenlightenment, or climate change made in USA,” in B. Williston, ed., Environmental Ethics for Canadians. Oxford, 2016.

“Future-oriented philosophy and wisdom east and west,”

in H. Moeller, ed., Wisdom and Philosophy: East and West, 187-204. Bloomsbury, 2016.

ARTICLES (single-authored except where noted)

“Kant and China: information transfer, censorship, and the idea of evolution”

Proceedings of the 24th World Congress of Philosophy, pre-selected, Beijing: Peking University Press, forthcoming 2019.

“On deeper human dimensions in Earth system analysis and modelling,” with D. Gerten (first author), Earth Systems Dynamics 9 (2018): 1-15, doi 10.5194/es-9-1-2018.

“Ecology and Chinese philosophy in the Anthropocene,”

J of Chinese Philosophy 43.3-4 (vol. 2016, pub. 2018): 178-184.

“Greening Confucius: appropriating the Analects for a future-oriented reading,”

J of Chinese Philosophy, 43.3-4 (vol. 2016, pub. 2018): 185-202.

“Falling down a waterfall: an examination of crisis,”

Comparative & Continental Philosophy 9.3 (2017): 260-268.

“Confucius, maladaptation, and civil evolution,”

J for the Study of Religion, Nature, & Culture 10.1 (2016): 49-57.

“The future of religion: global boundaries and the fork in the road,”

J of Religious Philosophy [宗教哲學季刊] 75 (2016): 1-27.

REVIEWS

James Miller, China’s Green Religion: Daoism and the Quest for a Sustainable Future

(Columbia, 2017), J for the Study of Religion, Nature and Culture, 2018, in press.

Stephen M. Gardiner and David A. Weissbach, Debating Climate Ethics

(Oxford, 2016), Environmental Values 27.1 (2018): 106-108.

TALKS

invited, Peking University, Beijing, China, June 2019

invited, Kobe University, Kobe, Japan, January 2019

“Secularizing stewardship: the heuristic potential of Ames/Rosemont’s Confucian role ethics”

East China Normal University (华东师范大学), Shanghai, China, August 2018.

“Kant and China: information transfer, censorship, and the idea of evolution”

24th World Congress of Philosophy, Beijing, China, Aug 2018, contributed paper.

“From the American disenlightenment to China’s lead in sustainable development”

24th World Congress of Philosophy, Beijing, China, Aug 2018, roundtable session.

“The philosophers’ war against the promoters of global warming” (with Graham Parkes)

Académie du Midi, Alet-les-Bains, France, May 2018.

“Klimasophía—a comparative approach to existentialist philosophy and the climate crisis”

Comparative and Continental Philosophy Circle, Bath, England, April 2018.