

Communications & Marketing Procedures: BRANDING

The University of South Florida is operating under a modified master brand strategy and all colleges and departments are required to follow the established brand guidelines. Student Success (SS) has its version of the USF logo and graphic elements that comply with the university's identity guidelines.

SS Communications & Marketing (CM) and the marketing personnel in the various departments of SS are responsible for guiding the development and the consistent dissemination of the university brand. Employees of all SS departments assist with branding efforts by incorporating brand components into their work, as appropriate, and under the guidance of their departmental marketing officer and/or CM.

Procedure: All marketing and communications materials should follow the established university brand. Guidance and brand artwork can be provided by SS marketing officers. Any employee needing graphic design assistance should contact their department's aligned marketing manager (see contacts below) or CM.

Textual Reference

SS departments should refer to themselves as '[insert department name], a department of Student Success at the University of South Florida' in the initial introduction of a written message, as appropriate.

Communications & Marketing Procedures: MEDIA INQUIRIES

As part of the University of South Florida, Student Success (SS) is regularly contacted by the media regarding news stories. 'Media' is defined as any news outlet on or off USF campuses, including The Oracle, Crow's Nest, and WUSF. To ensure a thorough and coordinated response to inquiries, all SS employees must direct media inquiries to SS Communications & Marketing (CM) to review and facilitate response, with few exceptions.

Procedure: Requests by Telephone or E-mail

All media inquiries received by telephone or e-mail should be immediately directed to the director of CM, with exceptions only for divisional spokespersons listed below. CM will notify University Communications and Marketing (UCM) of the request, determine the nature of the inquiry, respond to the inquiry, and/or coordinate interviews with appropriate experts in the various departments. If the director of CM is not available in a timely manner, then one of the following UCM representatives should be contacted:

Adam Freeman, 813-974-9047, adamfreeman@usf.edu

Althea Paul, 813-974-1665, alheapaul@usf.edu

If a SS spokesperson is the initial contact, the spokesperson (see list below) may directly respond to the media, although it is preferred that the request be referred to CM and/or UCM for investigation and preparation prior to responding. If a spokesperson does respond directly, they should inform CM of the inquiry and the line of questioning/ responses as soon as possible following the interview so that UCM can be kept informed.

Spokespersons:

Paul Dosal

Allison Crume

Bill Cummings

Danielle McDonald

Tom Miller

Billie Jo Hamilton

Glen Besterfield

Patricia Helton

Brett Kemker

Following all CM arranged interviews, the interviewed employee is asked to e-mail CM if the line of questioning deviated from what was anticipated.

Onsite Requests

Media are regularly on campus with the intention of conducting onsite interviews. Given USF is a public institution with an open campus, the media has a right to be here (provided that they are not disruptive or intrusive) and students are free to accept or decline interview requests. If asked to interview, employees of SS will use their best judgment to determine the nature of the interview and the best course of action. If the subject of the interview is simply informational (event or program specific) and the employee is informed and comfortable participating, then the employee may interview. Otherwise, the employee should decline the interview and direct the media to contact CM or UCM. If interviewed, the employee should notify director of CM immediately following the interview.

Communications & Marketing Procedures:

PRESS RELEASES & MEDIA SUBMISSIONS

As part of the University of South Florida, Student Success (SS) and its many departments regularly generate newsworthy content about achievements, initiatives, events, and programs. To create greater awareness of SS initiatives, press releases and other media submissions (media alerts, briefs, articles, etc.) will be considered and pursued.

Any news for public issue from SS and its departments, as well as third-party releases (vendor endorsements, joint announcements, etc.) in which the USF and/or any of its entities are referenced, must be forwarded to SS Communications & Marketing (CM) for coordination and university review and approval before dissemination without exception.

Procedure: Press Releases

Departmental news for press release should be outlined or drafted and forwarded to the aligned marketing manager for drafting, editing, and/or review preferably two (2) weeks prior to the desired release date. CM can assist with the writing of the release, if needed or desired.

It is the responsibility of the aligned marketing manager to secure departmental management approvals and third party approvals (if warranted) before forwarding the draft release to CM. All third party approvals must be obtained in writing in hard copy or via e-mail and kept on file with the department. CM will be responsible for obtaining necessary divisional and university approvals. Once all approvals are obtained, CM will work with University Communications and Marketing (UCM) to ensure optimal release timing over the newswire, e-mail, and/or other electronic media deemed appropriate. UCM will determine if, when, and how a release is distributed.

Media Submissions

Likewise, media submissions (i.e. media alerts, articles, etc.) by departments should follow the process detailed above.

Communications & Marketing Procedures:

MARKETING/COMMUNICATIONS MATERIALS

The University of South Florida Student Success (SS) Communications & Marketing (CM) department is responsible for the consistent dissemination of the university and SS brands. To ensure compliance with branding, quality standards, and university purchasing requirements that mandate logo review/approval, CM must review all SS and departmental marketing and communications materials prior to the items being purchased, produced, printed or put into service, including but not limited to:

Literature	Digital marketing
Advertising	Tabling/tradeshows displays/tablecloths
Signage	Advertising specialties (i.e. t-shirts, promotional items)
Newsletters

CM must also review all artwork for student organizations when it includes any reference to USF.

Any SS or departmental communications intended for distribution beyond our division must be submitted to CM for prior review. Routine communications pieces, such as letters, reports, and other internal documents, do not need to be reviewed, provided that departmental management has approved these items and university and SS branding is correctly applied, if appropriate.

Procedure: In the instance that CM is not preparing the artwork, it is strongly suggested that CM marketing managers be included early in the planning process to ensure that there are no last minute issues with artwork/messaging.

To comply with university logo approval and Purchasing requirements, a pre-production proof must be submitted (preferably via e-mail) to the CM director for review and approval. The proof should be the final artwork provided by the vendor as a production proof.

Submitters should indicate turnaround time needed for the approval. CM will coordinate the communication of any required and/or suggested modifications with the department requestor. Approvals of artwork will be provided expediently via e-mail so that the submitting department has written proof of the approval to submit to Purchasing, as required.

Communications & Marketing Procedures: E-MAIL FORMAT AND SIGNATURES

The University of South Florida Student Success (SS) Communications & Marketing (CM) is responsible for guiding the development and consistent dissemination of the university brand. E-mails are a prominent means of communication, providing regular opportunity for brand building with all our stakeholders, including students, employees, and vendors. All SS employees are requested to use the standardized e-mail signature format provided below to assist in university brand awareness.

Procedure: Employees should follow the USF branding initiatives by following the standard e-mail signature examples below, in compliance with the standards provided by University Communications & Marketing. The preferred font for e-mail is Calibri, with your name appearing in 14 pt. bold text and the balance of the text in 12 pt. regular text. All text should use USF Green (RGB: 0, 103, 71 or Hex #006747). Artwork and further instructions for signatures can be found on the university's brand management site. Employees should not use any other logos, quotes, wallpaper/ backgrounds, mixed fonts, multi-colored fonts, and clip art to ensure compliance with the USF brand.

Communications & Marketing Procedures: Disability Accommodations

Student Success (SS) at the University of South Florida is committed to ensuring that the campus and its student life activities are inclusive of and accessible for all students. To facilitate this access and with guidance from the Student Accessibility Services (SAS) department, SS Communications & Marketing (CM) requests the inclusion of a disability accommodations statement in all marketing and communications issued from the division. Additionally, any video utilized by SS and its departments should be captioned to ensure accessibility. Finally, large-scale events, especially those open to the public, should automatically make provisions for on-site accommodations with guidance from SAS. Cost for any services rendered will be the responsibility of the department or organization, not SAS.

Procedure: Statement

All marketing and communications materials, including printed and electronic materials (i.e., posters, flyers, brochures, forms, etc.), should include a version of this statement:

“For reasonable accommodations, please contact [insert name], [phone number and/or e-mail address] (FL Relay 711).”

If only providing an e-mail address, you do not need to include the “(FL Relay 711)”. This statement should appear in close proximity to the contact information on materials.

In order to facilitate those with visual impairment, please use a crisp, easy-to-read font, such as Arial or Calibri, set in a minimum of 11 pt. type (or larger for large format items, like posters). The font may be bolded for better clarity but should not be condensed. Additionally, the font should appear in high contrast to the background. For instance, if the background is dark, set the type in white or near white color; if the background is light, set the type in black or near black color. Avoid putting the statement over a photograph or graphic that is not solid in color.

Any requests received for accommodations must be immediately coordinated with SAS. The cost of such services may be the responsibility of the requesting entity.

Video Captioning

Contact SAS for information and assistance on captioning video. It is preferable to have the video producer handle the captioning on the front end. If this is not possible, SAS may be able to assist with captioning postproduction; the expense may be passed on to the requesting department.

Large Scale Events

Contact SAS for guidance and coordination of accommodations resources for large-scale events preferably two weeks prior to the event. Any expense may be passed on to the requesting department.
